Florence Wants Berth Of Her Own In Loop This Year

Soliciting teams will take the field
in Albany and in Decatur Wednesday morning in the campaign to raise $3, 000 in the Twin Cities to insure professional baseball here this year.

Teams already have been appointed for Central Albany, for the Louisville and Nashville shops and for Decatur.
The campaign which opens Wednesday will end the following Monday
when a meeting will be held of all members of the committees and a final check-up made. Rev. W. P. Wilks, pastor of the Central Baptist church,
Albany, is general chairman.

An inquiry received by the local management from Florence Saturday brought forth the possibility that Florence may be a member of the circuit this year. If Florence determines to go into the loop, it is likely that Columbia fans, reported to be willing to drop their franchise, will be accommodated. The Florence berth would not affect the Sheffield franchise, it was said here. With Florence and Sheffield both members of the league,
it was pointed out that travelling expenses would be materially reduced.

Columbia fans have not indicated definitely that they do not want to remain a member of the Alabama-Tennessee loop, but it is said that considerable money will be necessary to finance Columbia again this year and some expressed doubt that the people of that city will care to meet the mark this season if there is a possibility of the franchise being placed elsewhere until more favorable
business conditions arise.

Body of Woman Found In Creek

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Feb. 13.—The body of a woman believed to be that of Mrs.
J. C. Cater, of Meridian, Miss., was found lying on the banks of Peachtree
creek, on the outskirts of Atlanta,
early today.

Police and county authorities expressed the belief that the woman had committed suicide, but were conducting a rigid investigation. The body had been in the water, but police were unable to say who had removed it.

An automobile stood in the road a short distance from the creek.

Probe Continues In Movie Murder

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—In the belief that persons in the Hollywood motion picture colony are in possession of information of importance in connection with the probe of the William D. Taylor murder mystery, District Attorney Woolwine and other officials have started an investigation that is expected to reach every nook
of the great studio center.

Solons Struggle With Bonus Bill

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Congress struggled again today to determine on a bonus tax scheme which will be agreeable at the same time to the administration and to the people who will have to pay up the money. One of the most important developments was the plan of the agricultural bloc to propose the re-enactment of the excess profits tax to help straighten out the tax muddle which is holding up the bonus bill.

Exhibitors Will Meet Tonight In Final Conference

All merchants of the Twin Cities who expect to have exhibits at the Tennessee Valley Industrial Exposition, which opens on Saturday, February 18, are requested to meet this evening at the Albany Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 o'clock.
Business of importance will be discussed.

DRASTIC CUT IN NAVY STRENGTH PLAN OF DENBY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Reduction in the personnel and equipment of the navy to effect a saving of $70,000,000
in the budget for 1922-23 were recommended to the house naval affairs committee today by Secretary of the Navy Denby.

Denby urges that an appropriation be made to maintain an enlisted personnel of 90,000 men and 6,000 apprentices, a decrease of about 10,000
under the present strength.

Because of lack of appropriation,
Denby told the committee that 100 destroyers would have to be taken out of commission. He said that there should be no decrease in commissioned personnel but recommended the graduation of all members of the first class
at the United States naval academy.

As another economy measure the Secretary of the Navy recommended that the number of appointments to the naval academy, now accorded to each member of congress, be reduced from five to three.

PRICE OF FORDSON TRACTORS IS CUT

The first announcement of the big cut in price of the Fordson tractor was made through Mr. Henry Ford's radio message Thursday evening (January 26th, from our Dearborn Radio Station to Ford dealers attending a Fordson Tractor Industrial show in Cleveland, Ohio. The context of his talk, which was very plainly heard in Cleveland and surrounding districts,
is quoted below:

"It is certainly wonderful to sit here in my office and say a few words of greeting to you Ford dealers of the Cleveland territory. The radio is an outstanding tribute to man's inventive genius. They say there is nothing new under the sun, but we are constantly inventing new things, every day bringing some big improvement over the previous day's methods.

"Manufacturing operations have undergone some wonderful revolutionary changes during the past few years.
We are all familiar with the big improvements in transportation method, but the oldest industry has been the most backward in the acceptance or adoption of the new and up-to-date methods of doing things, and that is the farming industry. Being a farmer,
I am vitally interested in all farm improvements, and with this in mind,
I have spent years of time and millions in money in the development of the Fordson tractor, which I really think is one of the biggest possible
helps to profitable farming."

New Pontiff Has Assumed Office

(International News Service)
ROME, Feb. 13.—Pope Pius XI today assumed formally the duty of supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic church. Six thousands persons witnessed the coronation rites in St.
Peter's cathedral Sunday morning.

There is a feeling of expectation that the new Pope will reject tradition. Since 1870 every Pontiff of the church has immured himself in the vatican during the tenure of his office. It is regarded as highly possible that Pope Pius XI will upset this tradition.

Lines Being Drawn For Strength Test In Union's Fight To Prevent Wage Cut

Coal Miners And Railroad Workers Will Hold Conference
February 21

LABOR BOARD OPENS
HEARINGS MARCH 6

Belief Is Growing That Miners'
Walkout On April 1 Is Inevitable

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Lines for what is expected to develop into an acute industrial crisis were being drawn today as coal miners and railway workers prepared for a conference here on February 21 to plan defensive action against proposed wage reductions and the United States railway labor board began clearing the decks for the beginning, on March 6, of hearings on applications for wage reductions by the carriers and wage increases by the workmen.

The carriers have asked that a flat reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of members of the big four brotherhood and the so-called standard union.
The union men are preparing vigorously to oppose this move and to fight for pay increases for many classes
of railway workers.

While the railroad situation is moving toward what many believe to be a crisis the opinion also is growing that a coal strike is inevitable when the prevailing agreement between the union and operators expires.

Proposed wage cuts, elimination of the check off system and other issues are viewed with such unyielding attitude by both sides it is declared that only a test of strength can determine the outcome of the controversy.

Much Interest In Farmer Meetings

In speaking to a Daily reporter, Walter G. Johnson, county farm agent, said that the farm meeting held at Hartselle Saturday was one of the best meetings that had been held so far in the county. "There is more interest being taken in these meetings, and more ideas of a helpful and constructive nature put forth than has prevailed since I have been in the county," he declared.

Besides having two able addresses
by representatives from Auburn, there were the reports of the committees on important farm matters affecting every farmer in the county. The meeting, or rather series of meetings, lasted well toward nightfall, and it was the general opinion that much was done that will be extremely helpful
to farmers in the coming crop.

Farm Sales Are Increasing Now

In conversation with representative citizens over the county it was learned that there is a better feeling extant now than for many months past. In some localities there has been exchange of title to farm lands, and farm property is not such a drag as has been the rule for the past eighteen months. There is also a better disposition it is said in helping those who need some help to pitch the present crop. One great advantage, it was pointed out in favor of the work this year, is in the fact that most every one has feed stuff to do through the plowing season, and this usually large expense will not have to be incurred the present year.

County Court Is Held In Hartselle

Judge W. T. Lowe left for Hartselle this morning where he will convene a term of the Morgan county court, to hold for one week. At this time both civil and criminal cases will be heard.
Sheriff J. V. May and Circuit Clerk
J. L. Draper are at Hartselle also.

AMERICAN CLAIMS AGAINST GERMANY OF INDEMNITY ARE TO BE PROTECTED

Payment of $400,000,000 For Submarine Attacks Demanded
By United States

ALIEN PROPERTY WILL BE HELD AS SECURITY

Suggested That Treasury Department Underwrite the Claims of Individuals

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—American claims against Germany, amounting to $400,000,000 because of loss of life and property at sea from German submarine attacks, will be protested to the last dollar before the United States will agree to return property seized from German subjects during the war, it was learned authoritatively today.

President Harding has been informed by his advisers on the question that provisions of the peace resolution gives sufficient authorization for this government to hold the seized property until provision has been made for the satisfaction of all claims against Germany.

There also is under consideration a plan to set aside part of the profits of the seized German concerns to be applied to a fund for the payment of American claims against Germany.

It is even suggested that this government might go so far as to underwrite the American claims and settle them. The plan contemplates reimbursement of the treasury out of a portion of the profits of the seized property.

Opposes Federal Hunting License

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 12.—
Opposition to the federal bill providing for a federal license on hunters is expressed by L. T. Quinn, state commissioner of conservation, in a letter Saturday to Lamar Jeffers, congressman for the fourth Alabama district. Mr. Quinn insisted that no license should be imposed on a citizen of Alabama for hunting within the state, that the law would require a person to obtain a license for the privilege of hunting on his own land,
that it would take away from the state
rights which have already been delegated to it and would centralize the power at Washington.

Commissioner Quinn also insisted that the bill would provide for a duplication of the work now being done by the states. He urged Congressman Jeffers and other members of the Alabama delegation to oppose the measure when it comes up for consideration.

Market Sought For Potato Crop

The selling agent of the Union Truck Growers Association is endeavoring to find a market for the thousands of bushels of sweet potatoes in the curing house at Hartselle. Also he is getting in touch with large buyers to be in position to dispose of the berry crop that is soon to come on.

Many who have berries have made arrangements for crates in which to ship, some taking as many as 100 crates in the first shipment that has been ordered and is due to arrive soon. To a Daily reporter the agent said: "We are very hopeful of being able to dispose of the crop here at good prices, and should anything happen that ear lots will not be a reality, arrangements are to be effected whereby we can supplement car shipments partially loaded at Culman and run here to be loaded to capacity."

STRIKERS PICKET TEXTILE PLANT CALLS CONFERENCE FOR EDUCATION

(International News Service)
MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 13.—

Five thousand striking employees
formed a picket line about the Star and Ameskeag cotton mill today. The pickets kept moving and the small police detail on duty had nothing to do. Less than 4,000 workers reported at the mill, and they were forced to suspend operations.

About 18,000 workers are striking here. It is estimated that more than 40,000 textile workers are unemployed throughout New England today because of disputes over wages and working hours.

Announcement of 20 per cent wage reductions by mill owners has been followed by strikes in nearly every mill where the cuts became effective.

Daily Advertising Drew Big Business

A half page advertisement published Friday in The Daily drew a big business to M. E. Woodman's Saturday, it was declared today. The February clearance sale of the popular haberdashery started off with a large number of shoppers in attendance all day Saturday.

MAYO'S TESTIMONY
BEGINS LATE TODAY

Ford Engineer Will Tell Committee Of Auto Manufacturers Plans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Henry Ford today, through his accredited representative, W. B.
Mayo, served notice on congress
that the Ford proposals to develop Muscle Shoals must be accepted
in its present terms or rejected.
"It is not the intention of Mr.
Ford to change his contract proposal in any way," Mayo told members of the house military affairs committee which is considering Ford's bid to lease the property.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—America's difficulties during the world war in securing nitrate for explosives and the development of Muscle Shoals, Ala., "the pioneer effort in the United States for producing nitrate" were disclosed today in the house military affairs committee by Major C. H.
Burns, of the army ordnance department.

Muscle Shoals, which Henry Ford has offered to lease, is today capable of furnishing the quality and quantity of nitrate for explosives needed by the government and must be continued for national war preparedness, whether by the government or private enterprise, Major Burns said.

Burns, who is in charge of the ammunition division of the ordnance department, impressed upon the committee that the necessity for taking every possible precaution to guarantee continued manufacture of nitrate in the Alabama property.

Chairman Kahn called upon Burns
to testify as to the Muscle Shoals property, the condition of the nitrate plant on it and waterpower possibilities in the project. His testimony was sought at this time to give W. B.
Mayo, chief of Ford's engineers, opportunity to appear before the committee this afternoon.

Chairman Kahn announced that the committee also will call Theodore Swatz, an engineer, to describe the Muscle Shoals property and its commercial possibilities and a fertilizing expert of the agricultural department. Contracts entered into by the ordnance department and the Alabama Power company for the development of the Warrior power plant, part of the Shoals property, should be lived up to, Major Burns declared. That plant under the terms of the contract must be sold to the Alabama Power company if it chooses to exercise its option rights, Burns testified.

"If the company does not desire to purchase the power plant it must be removed from the property under contract terms," he said.

Chairman Kahn and Representative
Hull, of Iowa, pointed out the wide discrepancies in opinion in the ordinance department and the judge adocate general's department over which the existing contracts can legally withhold the government from accepting Ford's offer.

"We cannot give clear title on the Warrior power plant, although that is not an essential part of the proposed Ford contract. The government can give a clear title on the nitrate plant," declared Burns.

Major Burns, in answer to further questions, declared that nitrate plant
number two, on the Shoals property,
can be made to produce ammonium
sulphate, a component part of fertilizer. "Physically it can be done, but whether Ford could produce ammonium sulphate economically is doubtful," Burns testified.

The witness declared he believed
Ford could carry out his contract so

LAW TO REIGN IN THE AIR

When the radio people connected with the government service hold a convention in a few weeks, according to Herbert Hoover, ways and means will be discussed for limiting the use of the air by all those who use radio phones. Mr. Hoover declares that of late the atmosphere is so full of all kinds of messages, that the official business of the country is being impeded thereby. He goes on to say that the musical programs, sermons and "bed time stories" that fill the air of late are something fierce. But on top of all that Hoover professes to be a friend to the enterprising ones of earth who have rigged up "listening in" machines throughout the country. He says that it would never do in the world to interfere with the growing genius of the large and small boys who are making such a success of wireless, any more than may be absolutely necessary in order to conserve the greatest good to the greatest number.

Mr. Hoover says that he may not be able to advocate entire personal liberty in the matter of giving and receiving air message, but that he will seek to restrain those who would like to eliminate air gossip and heavenly voices altogether.

Already the great news services have begun to make rules governing their rights to messages sent out. For instance local wireless experts state, that such information as they receive, cannot be printed by any other news service, except the one sending it out. It looks like "one law after another" is coming upon us, until the anti-prohibitionists, will not be the only ones who will raise a kick against so much infringement on "personal liberty." We cannot say very much longer "as free as the air," if the predictions of men like Mr. Hoover are to come true.

CAMPAIGN AT ITS HEIGHT TO RE-ESTABLISH ROBERT E. LEE SCHOOL.

With about two weeks to run, the campaign for the Robert E. Lee Memorial is now at its height. Every newspaper, especially every southern newspaper, laying claim to an abiding interest in the development of the youth of the nation and of the south, with rare exception, is entering heart and soul into the effort to re-establish the School of Journalism first set up by General Robert E. Lee, while he was President of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va. As an earnest of what southern editors propose to do in a practical way to insure the re-establishment of this school, The Southern Newspaper Association at their annual meeting in Asheville, passed amid applause the following resolution:

Whereas, it is proposed that the editors of the South, by simultaneous appeal for popular subscription re-establish and endow the Lee Memorial School of Journalism at Washington and Lee University as their tribute to the Founder of Journalism as a learned profession; and

Whereas, the Press Associations of various states and the President of the University have requested the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association to undertake the management of this patriotic enterprise.

Be It Resolved:

1st. That the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association heartily endorses this movement, hereby undertakes the responsibility of its management, and welcomes this opportunity to focus the gaze of the whole South upon the matchless character and services of her ideal hero.

2nd. That its President is hereby requested to appoint a Central Committee of seven members, of which he shall be one, who shall appoint State Committees, select the date of the simultaneous appeal, and as the representatives of the Southern editors carry this patriotic enterprise to a successful conclusion.

3d. That the President of the University be requested to act as consulting member of the Central Committee, and to supply to press in preparation for the campaign all needed information.

It will be recalled by citizens of the Twin Cities, that the Alabama Press Association in its annual convention here, passed similar resolutions to the above, and that Dr. Henry Louis Smith, Secretary of the entire movement, made an address to the convention in which he set forth in an attractive manner the claims of the Lee Memorial.

Following the lead of the Southern Press Association, the Alabama Press Association, and Dr. Smith himself, The Albany-Decatur Daily, is conducting a campaign to secure from this section a donation in the neighborhood of at least $300.00—the minimum of what the state managers of the campaign hope to receive as free gifts from communities of this size. It should be borne in mind by those who propose to contribute, that the ideals as to life and duty as advocated and lived by General Lee are to be taught in the re-established school of Journalism to be dedicated to his memory. Those who appreciate generous and eloquent expression of opinion, will be interested in the following tribute to Lee, as spoken by the late Senator Hill:

"He was a foe without hate, a friend without teaching, a soldier without cruelty, and a victim without murmuring. He was a public officer without vices, a private citizen without wrong, a neighbor without reproach, a Christian without hypocrisy, and a man without guile. He was Caesar without his ambition, Frederick without his tyranny, Napoleon without his selfishness, and Washington without his reward. He was so obedient to authority as a servant, yet in as thority as a king. He was as gentle as a woman in life, pure and modest as a virgin in thought, watchful as a Roman vestal, submissive to law as Socrates, and grand in battle as Achilles."

FEMININE AMBITION.

Miss Lydia Belle Gibson who, starting with a capital of $5, in 12 years has built up "a chain of hotels and independence" says no woman should marry if she wants a career. "Marriage," she says, "robs a woman of her individuality and kills her ambition. No woman of initiative and intelligence can afford to get married."

This statement was laid before a woman who had had an ambition, and who had exchanged the fulfillment of it for a husband and children. Her comment was simple.

"Piffle!" she said.

Then she explained. Her ambition had not been killed. It had been transmuted. Instead of one person to fulfill that ambition, a person who she now realizes could only have been mediocre at best, she has growing up three people, all with better bodies than hers, because she has put initiative and intelligence into their physical care. All three have better minds than hers because they have added to her qualities those of her husband. All three have had, so far, better training, mental and moral, than she had, because she put that same initiative, intelligence, ambition and experience besides, into giving them that training. She and her husband are happier, and the world is better off, because she married.

There is, too, another point. The woman with a real and definite talent for some one line will undoubtedly find a means of expressing that talent. She will find time for it amid her other duties, neglecting neither, but making room by increased efficiency at both jobs. Mary Roberts Rinehart is a popular example of what such a woman can do. So she will turn that talent into the stream of her home life, making it more beautiful.

Nothing vital in the way of spiritual and mental power is ever lost by a change in circumstances. It finds expression in spite of obstacles.

And anyhow, if no woman of initiative, intelligence or ambition gets married, what is going to become of the human race?—Tuscaloosa News.

AN IDEA FOR YOU.

Even a nickel is sometimes a good investment. Take the case of Hattie Schelber, 16 West One Hundred and Sixteenth street, for instance. When Samuel Sussman, Eighteen West One Hundred and Fifth street, boarded a Madison avenue car one cold evening last year, he gave the conductor a plugged nickel. Not that he knew it had been plugged. That must be made clear or Miss Schelber won't seem to be a good investor, after all. The conductor recognized the plugged condition, however, and rejected it and Mr. Sussman had then only a $20 bill, which the conductor could not change. Mr. Sussman was embarrassed. At this point the young woman appeared and delicately insisted on paying his fare. He called the next evening to return the nickel and the other day they were married. Once more do the exigencies of city life fail to destroy romance.—New York Item in Pittsburgh Leader.

Through the manner of sacrifices is much accomplished. Many are permitted to attain and develop into well rounded characters because some one made sacrifices. This in turn calls for sacrifices to be made by the one for whom the sacrifices is being made, also. One must sacrifice the desire often for ease and pleasure, and must do hard work in order to accomplish. Where these elements abound will usually be found those who are willing to pay the price and accomplish.

To this kind the world depends for those who take the reins of government of both church and state just out yonder, and if they are fitted by the experiences of this kind they will be in position to render good service. The desire to fritter away golden opportunities loses the chances for that individual to acquit themselves in a manner befitting the sacrifices that are being made in their behalf.

A great compliment to pay any man is, that with the equipment he had to work with he did his best. He may have made failures as he went along, but, he left emblazoned on the highway of times marks that are plainly visible to others as they go along, and these will prove of value to those that come after.

We rear monuments that pierce the sky to commemorate the achievements of those that have wrought well, but the greatest monument is the remembrance which they leave in the minds of those to whom they have extended some helpful service. This will live long after the monument thus erected has crumbled to dust, and proves each time a monument more imperishable than granite.

That the women of the county propose to enter the field of active politics is reflected in the press of the state by the announcement being recorded of women who have already made their announcements for some of the offices to be filled this year.

Morgan County from all reports will not be an exception, and the voters of the county may expect some announcements in the near future by some of our women asking for your vote and influence.

This will mark a new epoch in the politics of the county, and its influence will be watched with great interest.

We all build air castles and all have seen them burst and disappear. To many it was a great trial, to others nothing but an incident, for they started to build over again and finally constructed one that would stand.

That is life. We build high hopes of anticipation only in many instances to see them disappear and vanish. If we are strong of faith and have the courage we can reconstruct and start all over again stronger and better prepared to make the next castle a reality—sometimes.

Modern society is blamed for many of the illusions that are held out to the young of today.

Intemperance as practiced in many forms of the present day is responsible for much of the sorrow and sadness that is extant in the land, of which intemperance of speech takes its annual toll which is a large one.

Increased Attendance Marks The Wesley Bible Class Service

Increased attendance was noticed at the Sunday morning meeting of the Wesley Bible class of the Central M. E. church, there being 121 men present, according to the secretary's report. The class is divided into two divisions, each contending for the mastery to see which can secure the largest number of class members.

The lesson for the day, "The raising of the dead son of the Sunamite woman at the hands of Elisha," was explained in an attractive manner by Hon. E. W. Godbey. Mr. Godbey explained in the outset that Elisha was only the means used, that it was God Himself who restored life to the dead boy. The speaker said that the simplicity and straight-forwardness of the Bible account of the miracle was a blow to skepticism. It emphasized that while God used frail men to do His bidding, that He required trained men and those who would give Him the best that was in them.

The distinguished attorney took occasion, in the course of his remarks, to score heavily against the Darwinian theory of evolution. He said evolution could not account for the material universe, discounted the wonder of creation and went on to say that the theory by a "feeble, flabby floundering, inert beginning, until the monkey crossed the bridge."

Ejaculated the teacher: "Strange that the bridge has never been crossed during the six thousand years of recorded history! Evolution logically implies retrogression."

"Reversion to the original type is always possible if not inevitable. If the monkey crossed the bridge 'coming up,' man may cross it going down."

"If we came from monkeydom, it is logical to say we may go back there. The poet sings: 'Have we risen from out the beast? Then back into the beast again!'"

Makes God the Author of Miracles

In opening his address, Mr. Godbey said: "It is commonly said that such and such a Bible character performed a miracle; but the miracle was performed through the man but not by him. Christ, Himself, frequently disclaimed having wrought wonders, ascribing the power to the Father. Divine power has almost invariably been manifested through human agency, why we know not. The supreme manifestation of divinity required the incarnation of the divine unto an organization supremely human and weakly human."

"The human instrument of supernatural manifestation have always been men apart. While we have these treasures in earthen vessels, the vessels have been unusual. No great feat of the kind of which we speak was ever performed except by one thoroughly trained and specially prepared.

Elisha had been schooled by Elisha. When the latter was translated, Elisha received a double portion of his spirit, his power, such was his equipment. On this occasion he found a special preparation in prayer necessary. Such preparation was not recorded as necessary to the other miracles wrought through him, and there are more such feats accredited to Elisha than to any other of the Old Testament characters—one at least occurring after his death."

Challenge to Skeptics

The lesson in question is a challenge to skepticism. The setting is especially vivid and human. The child—the result of a special dispensation; born not in the normal course of nature, with an unusual hold upon the affections and expectations of his parents; willing beneath the fierce Oriental sun, in the harvest fields, sent home to his mother, sitting on her knees till noon, "and then he died."

Prepare Exhibit For Local Show

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 13.—The state department of archives and history will participate in the Tennessee Valley Industrial Exposition at Albany which will begin next Saturday and will continue 10 days. A GOOD TONIC FOR OLD PEOPLE

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Restores Strength and Prevents Illness

Aged people often need a good blood tonic. When the blood becomes clogged with poisons from the system, Gude's Pepto-Mangan purifies it by driving off the waste matter. Good blood is full of vitality and prevents illness, giving the body greater power of resistance. The weaknesses of old age are greatly helped by a supply of rich, red blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is sold in liquid or tablet form by all druggists. It has been recommended by physicians for 30 years and is a valuable tonic and builder for the weak and run-down of all ages from childhood to old age.—Advertisement.

How to Tell.

It is quite easy to tell how long a man has been married by the way he speaks to his wife. If he says "My darling wife," that means three months; "wifey," six months; "the wife," one year; "Mrs. Blank," two or three years; "the missus," five or six years; "mother," seven years; "my better half," ten years; "the old lady," twenty years; "grandma," twenty-nine years; "Mrs. Blank," forty-two years; "Jane," fifty years.—Portland Oregonian.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING
A DEMONSTRATED SUCCESS

County Agents and Other Members of the Alabama Extension Service to Assist in Greater Cooperative Marketing Program in 1922

Auburn, Alabama, February.—After successfully directing the cooperative sale of hogs, potatoes, peanuts, peas, cattle, and other products to the extent of approximately $1,000,000, at a saving of $100,000, in 1921, the Alabama Extension Service, through its specialists, district agents, and county agents, is now preparing to extend cooperative marketing to cotton, hay, and perhaps other products in 1922.

The cotton marketing plan which the Extension Service will cooperate in putting into operation has four distinct advantages, as follows:

1. It will provide sufficient finances for those who need financial assistance in marketing their cotton.
2. It will prevent the usual great waste between the ginner and the spinner.
3. It will insure proper grading and stapling.
4. It will substitute orderly marketing for dumping.

Early in January a few representatives of the Extension Service made a special investigation of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Marketing Association, finding that the above are, in the main, the advantages of this method of marketing. By first having an organization the Texas farmers had no difficulty in arranging with the Texas bankers and other financial sources to lend them money on their cotton as soon as it is ginned and delivered at the railroad station. This credit has enabled them to sell their cotton through their association in an orderly manner. Farmers were able to borrow approximately 60 per cent of the value of the cotton, thereby liquidating a part or all of their indebtedness immediately and the remainder as sales are made. It, therefore, helps bankers and merchants.

The prevention of the usual waste by damaging and rotting between the time it is ginned and sold will amount to an enormous saving in Alabama each year. The familiar scene of bales of cotton lying out in the rain, where it rapidly rots, will disappear when the organized cooperative method of selling cotton is put into operation.

In this connection, many farmers have made the mistake of assuming that this loss has been passed on to the buyer or to some other individual except himself, but in this he has been mistaken. The prices paid for cotton have always been reduced sufficiently to force the farmer to pay this damage, for which he has been, and is, responsible, and should stand the loss.

It is also evident that grading and stapling of cotton has, from the beginning, been one of the most difficult problems, and one which farmers cannot solve individually. By forming a co-operative marketing association they are able to employ the best of classers and graders, and thereby eliminate all loss in this connection.

Improper grading and stapling, according to very careful estimates, has cost the cotton farmers of Alabama each year, in round numbers, $4,000,000. This will be saved.

The fourth, and no doubt largest, advantage of the cotton marketing plan which the Extension Service will cooperate in putting into operation, is that it will substitute orderly marketing for dumping. Cotton is consumed every month in the year, and should be marketed accordingly. It is poor business to force the year's supply of cotton on the market during about three months, or one-fourth of the year. When dumped on the market in this way the farmers suffer because of lower prices.

For five years the county agents, district agents and specialists of the Extension Service have been actively engaged in setting up and directing local cooperative marketing associations, and during this time every angle of the many questions involved has been carefully studied and answered. With the results of this experience as a guide, the future cooperative marketing work engaged in by the Extension Service will be fundamentally sound and properly managed.

In the first place it is recognized that cooperative marketing on a large scale requires the active support of an organization of the farmers themselves, who now have such an organization in the Farm Bureau, which has been responsible for the results in Texas and many other states, and is now active in Alabama. The Farm Bureau has requested the Extension Service to cooperate with it in its big marketing program.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Marketing Association will be managed by men who are among the very best trained in their particular lines. The grading and stapling will be under the direction of a man well trained by experience; the records will be kept by a similar person; and the sales manager will be a man thoroughly qualified to handle the duties of a cotton salesman.

The farmers who take advantage of this opportunity to sell their cotton for better prices will sign a five-year contract, which has been one of the secrets of the success of the cooperative marketing associations in California. It enables the association to employ experts to manage its marketing and also makes the proposition interesting to bankers, because of its five-year feature.

It is very evident that one of the really big problems now confronting the farmers of Alabama is that of marketing, which can be done in a successful way only through cooperation. The plan to be launched for the purpose of handling the cotton, hay and other farm products produced in Alabama in 1922 should meet an enthusiastic response on the part of the farmers, bankers, merchants, and professional men, because the success of the plan will mean more business and greater success for all.

What Dicky Said to Madge Near Dawn.

"I didn't need anybody to rock me to sleep," when I finally reached my room.
Dicky had returned from his trip with his sister in a vile humor—he is always exceedingly irritable when he's tired—and announced his intention of going straight to his bed.
Mrs. Harrison, however, who had lounged in a rocker all day, was as fresh as any daisy ever quoted, and announced her intention of setting something to eat. In common courtesy I could not refuse her, and besides, I guessed in what a clutter she would leave the kitchen, a proceeding which always infuriates Katie. My little maid would be "furnish" enough the next morning, without finding what she would characterize as "vile awful mess" in her always immaculate kitchen.

What Is That Bell?

My sister-in-law justified my fears. She cooked and ate an ample supper, washing in dish after dish. Then, calmly wishing me good-night, she went up to bed. To do her justice, I know she did not think that I meant to clear up the kitchen. But I was glad enough to rid of her steady stream of smiles not to wish her to help me, and I thought in the shape she had found them before I went to the room I was to share with Dicky.
I looked at Katie's window before I finally went to bed, but it was dark, and I knew that she was either asleep or had purposely extinguished the light. I could not come to help.
Dicky was snoring audibly when I finally reached my room, a snoring which usually effectively banishes sleep from me. But I had not been in bed a whole minute, I believe, before all consciousness had slipped from me, not to return until the sound of the tiny alarm clock I had slipped beneath my pillow had awakened me at the hour Lillian wished us to arise.
"What! What! What the dickens is that bell?"
Dicky started up in bed, pawing at the air.

I made a hasty, clumsy movement toward the window and tried to get the clock, which had stopped for a few seconds' intermission. But it began to ring again, just as my hand touched the pillow, and Dicky, dashing aside the pillow, picked up the clock. Wrenched the alarm off and threw the little thing across the room, where it crashed against the wall, making a jagged hole in the pretty wallpaper we had put on so recently.

Madge Gets Even.

"Perhaps that'll teach you not to be so brash with that cursed thing," he growled as he burrowed his head into the pillow again. "Of all the inconsiderate women in the world, you're the worst. Here I didn't get to sleep until midnight and you set an alarm clock at my ear for six in the morning. Well, thank goodness, you won't set that devilish alarm clock off again, and I'll sleep another one you ever bring here again!"
I knew there was some justice in Dicky's viewpoint. He had put in a sleepless day, and needed several hours more sleep. But my day and night had been much more stressful than his, and I did not know when the day I was beginning so early would end.
But his reaction destroyed the clock and marring of the wallpaper made me furiously angry. Although I was able to keep my lips closed and make no retort to his insulting little tirade, yet my wrath kept burning all the more dangerously for the repression. And as I dressed noiselessly and rapidly, I found myself turning over in my mind wild, childish schemes for getting even with him.

The bed in which we had slept was a low one, and close to it—Dicky's side—was a soft, thick rug. Nothing but a carefully lipsticked, a closed, brought two or three thick quilts, and laid them on the rug. Then, first being sure that I needed nothing more from the room, and leaving the door ajar for a quick getaway, I advanced to the bed, and with one mighty jerk brought him sprawling from the bed to the floor. Then I bounded to the door and looked back, laughing at the ludicrous picture he made—his face black with anger, his arms and legs thrashing around trying to get free from the entangling bed clothing.
"That's to pay for the clock!" I called loudly. "Hope you rest well."
I closed the door for fear the rest of the family would hear the picturesque language he sent after me. Then I went down the hall and knocked softly upon Lillian's door. She opened it promptly, and I saw that she was fully dressed.
"On time, as usual," she smiled.
"You're good mother, Madge."
"Then words are sweet," I said with a burlesqued salute.
"Now, there's plenty of time for a cup of coffee at last before we start. Katie's always in the kitchen before this."
But when I went into the kitchen to ask for the coffee, it was exactly as I had left it the night before. There was no trace of my little maid anywhere.

TALKS ON IDEAL IN
MOTOR BUILDING

In the long run value tells, whether in an automobile or any other article, and the manufacturer who offers most for the money rises to the greatest success. There may be times when this fact is not so apparent. For instance, when this country, returning to an era of peace, faced a great demand for goods with production at a low ebb, previously accepted standards of value were for the most part lost sight of.

This period—the year 1919, to be exact—paced the way for Studebaker's rise to the position of the world's largest manufacturers of six-cylinder cars. True, the prices of Studebaker cars went up, as prices of everything went up, but our profits were no greater, our prices increasing only in proportion to the greater costs of raw materials and labor. In other words, although we could have sold our cars for considerably more than their list prices, we were all the while thinking not only of 1919 and 1920, but of the years to come.

As a result, our cars at their highest prices, showed an amazingly small increase over their lowest prices, and in addition they incorporated many features of appointment and refinements in design that made them really worth more. Our sole object was to retain and enhance the good will we had built up.

In like manner, when prices began to show a downward trend, we kept pace, lowering our prices as fast as lower costs of raw materials and greater efficiency of labor permitted. The cumulative effect of this policy was felt through the results achieved in 1921, and will, I believe, be even more in evidence in 1922.

Silk Stocking Club

The pupils of the Albany and Decatur public schools are taking a great deal of interest in the music memory contest and are progressing nicely in the work. They are very enthusiastic and especially so about the prizes, although it is not known what they will be.

Misses Lillian Odom and Lucille Bailey have charge of the contest in Decatur and Misses Alice Hatten and Elizabeth Carpenter in Albany.

Mrs. S. E. McDowra is improving after several days illness.

VALENTINE PARTY.

A delightful party was enjoyed Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Himes on Oak street. This party was the result of a drive for new members in the Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian church. The society was divided into two factions and the side succeeding in securing the largest number of new members was to be entertained by the other side.

For the occasion the home was beautifully decorated in red hearts and red and white paper, carrying out the Valentine idea. Upon entering the guests were given paper hearts, ribbon and paste to make valentines, and they then drew for a person to present it to. Various contests were indulged in, probably the most enjoyable of which was a flower contest in which Miss Mary Tiles was the winner and received a useful souvenir.

Later in the evening refreshments, carrying out the color scheme in heart shapes, were served.

SATURDAY CLUB.

The Saturday club held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. W. C. Bailey Saturday afternoon.

Civic problems are being discussed by the club and for this meeting Mrs. Marvin Rankin, Mrs. A. A. Hardage and Mrs. W. W. Fussell had charge of the program, which was carried out in an interesting manner. Mrs. A. T. Hanson, accompanied by Mrs. A. J. Harris, gave several much enjoyed vocal selections. During the social hour a delightful salad course was served.

SILK STOCKING CLUB.

Mrs. Milton Lipscomb was hostess Saturday afternoon to the Silk Stocking club at the home of Mrs. Herbert Odom. Mrs. George Wallace was the only substitute and assisted Mrs. Lipscomb in serving lovely refreshments. Mrs. Frank P. Lide was the lucky contestant at the game of bridge and received the club prize.

Mrs. W. E. Crawford left today for a visit to Mr. T. W. Pratt in Huntsville. Mr. Crawford will join her there to attend the dance to be given by the Grace club there this week.

On Thursday morning at the chapel exercises of the Albany high school, Miss Alice Hatten, violinist, Mrs. H. O. Troup, piano accompanist, and Mrs. Harry Fulham, vocalist, will give a recital using the musical numbers from selections used in the memory contest.

Miss Lucille Whitley will leave today for Birmingham to continue training in the T. C. I. hospital.

Little Jane Keyes is very ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Keyes.

Miss Katherine Persons of Denver, Colorado, is home for a visit.

Miss Imogene Winton returned Saturday to the Woman's college at Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jesse and family will leave Wednesday for Wetumpka to make that place their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse will be missed by a large number of friends who will regret to learn they are leaving Albany.

WHEN FASHION ADDS NEW DUTIES TO EUROPEAN TRAVELERS

MISS EAGER—Yes, I know I used to abominate picture postcards, but I beg of you, please when you get to Serbia send me all the postcards showing the dresses the peasants wear! They're just the trick for spring blouses!

The many friends of Miss Margery Ramey will be glad to know she is able to be out after a two months' illness.

The meeting of the Progressive Culture club scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, February 14, has been postponed to Tuesday, February 21, with Mrs. L. B. Wyatt hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Davis have returned to Columbia after a visit to their son, H. R. Davis and family.

Rev. J. H. Hill was at Falkville Sunday where he held services at the Christian church morning and evening.

Mrs. Vera Austelle left this morning for Winchester, Tenn., called there by the death of a relative.

Misses Fern and Anne Royer returned Sunday from a business trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Hightower have taken rooms with Mrs. S. G. Bennett on Church street.

Edmund Nesbit is reported sick at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nesbit.

Robin Thomas spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thomas, and will return to Columbia Military Academy Tuesday morning.

Have You an Attic Sewing-Room?

DOES the woman live who, doing her own sewing in living-room or bedroom, does not long for a sewing-room where she may lay her work down without fear of its being disturbed while she is called to other duties? In most homes a separate room for this purpose is not available. In this case, everything must be picked up and folded away after each sitting, which is an inconvenient waste of time, and often disturbs a piece of work at a moment when a "big idea" as to sleeve or waistline has not yet been made captive, and is thus lost forever.

A clever woman, having had many unpleasant and disturbing experiences with her sewing, decided that a sewing-room was a necessity even if the dame had to eat in the kitchen during her two big sewing seasons each year. Casting about in all directions, one cleaning day a sudden, illuminating ray of hope shone across her pathway. She moved her way to the attic, and, standing at attention as she glanced about, she marvelled that the ray had failed to penetrate before.

A good hardwood floor, four wide, nice windows, a warm brick chimney on one side and a radiator on the other—what could be more cozy! She lost no time, but had the beamed ceiling covered with tar-paper, then with unbleached muslin. To square her room, she had a skeleton frame put up and tacked her unbleached muslin to it. Mustn't curtains at the windows completed the dainty appearance of the room.

The carpenter built in a work-table under the windows, and under the table, long drawers to hold materials. A smaller table was padded and fitted with an electric iron. A long pole was put up with coat and dress frames, with a drop sheet to protect them from the dust. Beside the main sewing-chair a spool rack was fastened against the wall. The sewing-machine in a perfect light had a handy plug for its motor, and a chair at just the right height in front of it. A long mirror, the product of a visit among the second-hand shops, was well placed, a fitting-frame was installed, and a small home-made bookcase held fashion books and patterns.

Mrs. Russell Moseley is ill at her home on Church street.

Mrs. Aline Garris was the guest Saturday night and Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Redus, of Sheffield. She was the honoree at a delightful dance. Mrs. Garris will remain in Sheffield and accompany Mrs. Redus and daughter to Memphis Monday.

Have You an Attic Sewing-Room?

The final and most noteworthy addition was a convenient lavatory. Could anything be nicer? The floor got two coats of midsize-gray paint, and a few art rugs, before chairs and tables left the centre clear for the draw-sheet spread down during fitting and trying-on times. The key in the door at the bottom of the stairs could be turned when conditions made it desirable to leave valuable goods in the sewing-room.

What a boon to have such a place to flee to when something special must be accomplished! No one realizes the joy until she has such a sewing-room. With just a little thought and a small outlay, many of us might have just such a spot, for there are innumerable empty attics in suburban homes.

Here like these should be put down in our builder's scrap-book. It is so easy to run water and electric wires to the top floor when they are being installed, and to make provision for a radiator even though the immediate need for one may not be apparent.

In some homes, children's playrooms, billiard-rooms, card and game rooms have been planned in the attic. One mother of a large family fixed her attic up as an emergency hospital ward, and promptly isolated her children when they were attacked by the maladies of childhood. In this way she often saved the other children from contagion.

Another use for the attic is for clothes-drying in extreme weather. Lines are permanently placed, the heater turned on or window opened, and the clothes dry incredibly fast, and no one gets cold putting them up or taking them down. An attic is one of the home-builder's many blessings if the architect can be induced to plan it carefully by pushing up the eaves to their utmost capacity and moving uprights, posts and chimneys into convenient corners.

IF YOU HAVE NO PEP OR ENERGY

You May Be Starving In Spite Of Your Three Meals A Day

If you have no appetite, do not sleep well, are weak, run-down, listless, no energy, and no ambition, it is evident that your daily food is not nourishing you.

It will interest every such person to know that the medical profession have for some time been recommending dietetic treatment for such conditions, rather than medicine, and at last science has produced SUSTO. Nutritive Taste Tablets which contain in a concentrated form the life-giving and strengthening elements of yeast, rice, eggs, milk, with beef protein, nuclein and iron that are lacking in our daily diet, to overcome such conditions.

SUSTO has been tested and approved by a well-known professor of physiological chemistry at one of our leading medical colleges, and after months of experimenting with SUSTO, he says, "In all cases of a general run-down system or in convalescence SUSTO played a very important part in stimulating the appetite and increasing body weight. In every instance where under-nourished infants and children were given SUSTO, important body-weight increases were registered."

Therefore, we feel very confident that our customers can find nothing better than SUSTO for the ailments of which it is recommended.

If you try it for one month and do not feel better in every way, we will return your money. For sale by S. M. Thompson—Advertisement.

"Angel's Touch" Subject of Sermon
By Rev. Wilks Sunday Morning

A large congregation heard Dr. W. Wilks Sunday morning when he preached from the 12th chapter of Acts, 7th verse, on the subject of "The Angel's Touch." An attractive musical program was rendered, consisting of choruses led by the choir and solos by Mrs. F. G. Cook and B. J. Pickens. The title of Mrs. Cook's solo was "I'll Be no Stranger There." Preceding the regular church service, he most largely attended Sunday school ever held in the history of the church convened, with the exception of last Sunday. There were 407 in attendance yesterday, 116 of which number were in the Convention Bible class, taught by W. R. Spight. Dr. Wilks' sermon was in part as follows: "In this incident we see the man Simon Peter rendered temporarily powerless. It was he who had preached with power on the day of Pentecost, resulting in the conversion of 3,000 souls in a single day. He it was who brought the first Apostolic miracle for the ascension of our Lord. And before him were possibilities wrought in a most wonderful work for God. But he is now sleeping between two pillars, bound with two chains, and guards at the prison doors, with a sentence of execution for the next day. His case seemed helpless and hopeless. "Do you not see other events of a similar nature every day? Sometimes it is the church, with heavenly opportunities and God-given possibilities, that lies sleeping, bound and guarded. A field for service lies round its door. But it is impotent. It is a man gifted mentally, but bound by ignorance. His brain with all its possibilities is dormant. He rendered powerless. How you wish one angel might smite him, strike off the chains and open the doors for giant intellect. Again, it is one stunted by sin. A life of influence could be his, or her's. The sleep goes on. Mighty angel of God, touch any one that here today, and let them go forth to freedom in Christ Jesus. Sometimes, it is a Christian, as was Simon Peter, but the usefulness is hid by sin, or careless indifference. He awakening and freeing touch is needed if his life would count for anything. "We see, too, that of himself, this man is unable to go forth to freedom and usefulness. In him lies no power to strike off the chains or open his prison doors. How futile would such efforts prove. Vain is the effort of man to free himself. How

George Duncan
Runs For Senate

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-
Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 12.—George Duncan, of Athens, notified William P. Cobb, secretary of state today of his candidacy for state senator from the first senatorial district. He named himself as the person to handle all funds which will be used in his interest.

George H. Smith, of Luverne, member of the house in 1915, entered the race for state senator from the twenty-fifth district. He also appointed himself as the person to handle all funds.

William L. White, prominent civil engineer of Birmingham, became a candidate for member of the house of representatives from Jefferson county, naming himself as the person to handle his campaign funds.

NEWS OF HARTSELLE

Isaac Johnson, Jr., who for the past two years has been with the Doss Hardware and Furniture company, in the capacity of salesman, has moved to his farm in Lawrence county. Mr. Johnson will devote his future activities to agriculture. Ike Johnson is a fine fellow, and he and his estimable family have many friends here who are sorry to lose them from the citizenship here.

The following young men will leave Tuesday for a five days' camp at the blowing springs in Lawrence county on Wiggins mountain. They will devote the time to hunting: Arthur Howell, Hugh Clements, Phil Orr, Henry Sherrill and Max Sobotka.

J. A. Miller and wife, of Albany, were visitors here Sunday.

Cal Johnson, who has been quite sick for the past week, is sufficiently recovered to be able to be up again.

George J. Friedkin, who recently moved his stock of merchandise from Hartselle to Albany, will move his family there as soon as the school term is over.

Robert Lee Griffith, of Birmingham, has accepted a position with the People's Drug company and began his duties Saturday.

Dr. R. M. McLaughery and family, of Albany, visited relatives here Sunday.

R. G. Sherrill and wife, of Decatur, spent Sunday here.

The cotton gins that have been running one day each week since January 1 closed down last week until the next crop of cotton is ready to harvest.

The last day's ginning was almost a full day's run and presents quite an unusual condition in the seed cotton situation. Formerly the gins closed down in December. There is still some seed cotton being marketed here but there will be no more ginning until next season.

At planting time last spring many believed that cotton would be very low in price, so consequently planted large acreage to corn. Now many have large cribs of corn for which there is practically no market. Corn since gathering time has sold as low as 40 cents per bushel, and now around 50 cents is the market price with none being offered.

Judge James E. Horton, of Athens, was a visitor here Saturday. Judge Horton was meeting the voters announcing his candidacy for one of the judgeships of this circuit.

Former Probate Judge William E. Skeggs was at Hartselle Saturday mingling with the citizens.

F. A. Bloodworth, of Albany, was at Hartselle Saturday on business.

Alec Hardage, of Albany, was here a short time Saturday.

Some flu is being reported here. The malady is of a mild type so far, and physicians are of the opinion that it will not be of a malignant type.

Ras Clemmons and family, of Albany, spent Sunday with relatives here.

A term of the Morgan county court was convened here this morning with Judge W. T. Lowe presiding. Sheriff J. V. May and circuit clerk, J. L. Draper are attending upon the court. The court will hold for a week and both civil and criminal dockets will be cleared.

A large number of citizens from over the county are in attendance and many lawyers from Albany-Decatur

W, WHAT'S THE USE

YOU'RE SO HAPPY YOU'VE GOT A NEW MAID—YOU SHOW HER AROUND AND TELL HER YOU WANT SOFT BOILED EGGS FOR BREAKFAST

SHE BRINGS HARD BOILED ONES—YOU REPRIMAND HER AND TELL HER THEY SHOULD BE S-O-F-T

SHE BRINGS H.B. ONES THE NEXT MORNING TOO—YOU RAISE A ROW THINKING THAT WILL HAVE SOME EFFECT

LATER YOU REGRET BAWLING HER OUT AND TRY GENTLE WAYS TO IMPRESS UPON HER THAT THE EGGS SHOULD BE - S-O-F-T

YOU COME TO BREAKFAST THE NEXT MORNING ALL HAPPY, FEELING SURE THE EGGS WILL BE SOFT, BUT YE GODS—

The Intelligent (?) Maid
